

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of making a fabric composite capable of assuming a desired shape including the steps of forming an interlining fabric (10) containing elastic yarn (15) running longitudinally
5 of the fabric, varying the density of yarn across the width of the interlining to control the longitudinal extensibility across the width, and attaching the interlining to a fabric backing material (12).